9th International Workshop on Grapevine Downy and Powdery Mildews

20-21-22 July 2022

Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, Cremona (Italy)

Because of the covid-19 pandemic we cannot held the GDPM in 2021. Now we are eager than ever to attend this essential meeting, interact with leading research and extension pathologists, and take advantage of valuable networking opportunities within the context of a workshop seeking to advance the management of the two leading threats to sustainable viticulture

In the spirit of the previous 8 GDPM workshops, the free exchange, and critical in-depth discussions of current research and advisory systems is crucial to the future of grapevine production worldwide. This workshop is a comprehensive presentation and discussion of fundamental, translational and applied work from around the globe.

Beginning in Geneva, New York (1991) and continuing through Freiburg, Germany (1994), Loxton, South Australia (1998), Napa, California (2002), San Michele, Italy (2005), Bordeaux, France (2010), Vitoria-Gasteiz, Spain (2014) and Corvallis, Oregon (2017), the Workshop is returning to Italy for its 30th anniversary.

Sessions for both pathosystems will include:

Pathogens biology, ecology and epidemiology.

Host-pathogen interactions, genetics, resistance, and breeding.

Advisory systems, modeling and disease forecasting.

Disease management, including organic options.

Facilitated discussion is the hallmark of the workshop, connecting the different talks and presentations.

Plenary sessions and smaller working groups for both pathosystems stimulate comparison of results and encourage information sharing and collaborations.
